

HN'YA'(PQI'N'N

A Gathering Place

Hn'ya'(pqí'n'n (hin-yawp-KEEN-n) references several historic sites as well as the name for the Lake Coeur d'Alene beach at the mouth of the Spokane River and the Plummer Trailhead on the Trail of the Coeur d'Alenes. These landmarks, where "heads were counted," serve as traditional gathering spots to fish, form hunting parties or launch other tribal excursions. We're pleased to count you among our friends.
